About

The City of Gold Coast and Resilient Building Council are inviting up to 1,000 households to take part in a national trial of the free self-guided Resilience Ratings Home Assessment.

The online assessment helps households understand how their home may perform during floods, bushfires, severe storms and tropical cyclones and provides practical recommendations to help reduce future damage.

By participating, households will help improve Australia's community-led Resilience Ratings tools and support the development of resilience-linked insurance and finance benefits.
